Mayor's Corner

"Any change, even change for the better, is always accompanied by drawbacks and discomforts."
 ~ Arnold Bennett

Times change, seasons change, people change, circumstances change, most things change. It just happens. Not all change is positive, not all change is bad, but one thing I believe is that, most of the time, change brings opportunities.

Hopewell has experienced some change over the last year with regards to employees. Some have retired, (more will retire over time) and some have left to pursue other opportunities, but one thing they all have in common is that they are all gone. This presents opportunities, Opportunities as employees to take the step to move into another position, opportunities as a city to build on the efforts of those who are gone, and opportunities for new blood to be introduced into our "system" in the form of new employees. It is also an opportunity for citizens to pick up and move forward.

Hopewell has changed. Some of the change has been for the better some not so much. I remember the days of Clark and Pritchard's, Carol Lane, Garfinkel's, Georges Drug stores and Touchdown Sundaes. I know in order to be successful we need to take the good from the past and apply it to building our future. But we cannot live in the past or focus on those who have left; we must immediately look to the future and what we need to change in order to make Hopewell better.

One opportunity that I have been given over the last 5 months is the opportunity to see first-hand what quality people we have working for Hopewell. I have been downtown almost every day and I know we are in good hands. We will fill the void of those who have left and we will succeed. I spent a good part of a day last week going around and talking to our employees and they are focused, driven, full of ideas and ready and willing to make things change for the better. You can't ask for more than that. Good people doing good work will move Hopewell forward. To all employees past and present, thank you for all that you have done and will do. We will seize the opportunities as they present themselves and we will do well.

City of Hopewell Launches New Website

The City is excited to announce the launch of a brand new website. "Learn Well, Live Well, Work Well, Play Well, In Hopewell an historic riverfront community". The new site will help citizens and the community stay informed of what going on in the City. Www.hopewellva.gov will feature news, information about City initiatives, events and services.

The new site is consistent with the City's Customer Service Philosophy. "We are all public service professionals committed to providing a culture of excellence in customer service by addressing needs with a caring attitude on a consistent basis."

This new technology is state of the art and user friendly. Citizens can navigate with ease to a particular area of interest. We believe these new features will allow us to better communicate and serve our citizens quickly during natural disasters and other crisis situations."

"Take a look around, you will notice new content, better navigation, more photos and yes a whole new look and feel. As we expand our engagement with residents, we want to be sure we're communicating with everyone, including those who depend on social media to stay informed," said Herbert Bragg, Director, Intergovernmental & Public Affairs.

We have highlighted buttons like Playful City U.S.A. visit our parks, who do I call about..., real estate & tax records, Civil War 150th our history, budget, media releases, common help, economic development, work well find a job and a community calendar, just to name a few. Planning for the new site began over a year ago, gradually taking shape with a strategic focus. The new site has a search feature that allows you to finds things easy.

As with any website, there will be glitches that need adjustment, as such, we will continue to improve the site, so please bear with us. We are pleased with the results and hope you will be as well. We will continue to improve the site over the coming week and months. We envision this becoming a "destination site" for residents and visitors alike--the first stop for anyone interested in learning more about our great community.

Debbie Pershing receives Junior Achievement 2013 Rookie of the Year Volunteer Award

Daphne Walker, President, Junior Achievement and Debbie Pershing, 2013 Junior Achievement Rookie of the Year Award Recipient.

Mrs. Debbie Pershing is the recipient of the 2013 Junior Achievement Rookie Volunteer of the Year Award. Based upon complimentary reviews from teachers at Harry E. James Elementary and her first year volunteering with Junior Achievement.

The Junior Achievement's Education and Volunteer Committee voted to bestow this honor upon Mrs. Pershing. The award was presented on September 23rd 2013 during JA's Annual Luncheon. Junior Achievement is the world's largest organization dedicated to educating students in grades K-12 about entrepreneurship, work readiness and financial literacy through experiential, hands-on programs.

The City of Hopewell and Hopewell Public Schools established a mutual beneficial partnership in concert with Junior Achievement in August of 2012. This partnership allows employees to get involved with students and assist teachers while fostering a friendship and meeting the goals and objectives of Junior Achievement in the classroom. To give back to your community is a very rewarding experience.

This program helps prepare young people for the real world by showing them how to generate wealth and effectively manage it, how to create jobs which make their communities more robust, and how to apply entrepreneurial thinking to the workplace. Students put these lessons into action and learn the value of contributing to their communities.

JA's unique approach allows volunteers from the community to deliver Curriculum-Based training while sharing their experiences with students. Thus, embodying the heart of JA, the classroom volunteers transform the key concepts of lessons into a message that inspires and empowers students.

LOCAL ARMY, SYMPHONY MUSICIANS UNITE FOR FREE CONCERT

The Fort Lee-based 392nd Army Band is joining Petersburg Symphony Orchestra again this year for free public performances in Hopewell and Richmond.

On Oct. 12, the groups will present a joint concert in celebration of the 400th anniversary of Hopewell's City Point. The free outdoor performance starts at 4 p.m. on the grounds of General Grant's Headquarters at 1001 Pecan Avenue and is open to the public. Concert-goers are reminded to bring lawn chairs and/or blankets for seating and to arrive early to allow time for parking. Those who would like to bring a picnic basket for dinner are welcome to do so.

On Nov. 10, the groups will come together again for a free Veteran's Day concert at Hunter Holmes McGuire VA Medical Center in Richmond, located at 1201 Broad Rock Boulevard. The concert starts at 1 p.m. and is open to the public.

The 392nd Army Band experienced its first partnership with the Petersburg Symphony Orchestra in 2012, when the musicians joined forces to perform a variety of popular works, including Tchaikovsky's 'Overture 1812,' which included actual cannon fire during the performance at City Point

Marching Blue Devils Have Award Winning Weekend

The Hopewell High School Marching Blue Devils marched out of Emporia, Virginia this weekend with an impressive collection of trophies. The group competed in the Greensville County High School Marching Classic over the weekend.

The Blue Devils won first place trophies for Overall Band, Percussion, Dance, and Flag. The Band was also awarded second place for Marching, Music, and Drum Major.

The Majorettes did not leave the competition empty handed either. They came home with a third place victory as well.

“It (The victory) means that all the hard work is paying off,” said Band Auxiliary Coordinator and Hopewell

High School teacher Chandra Brown. “I’m so proud of the band. We work hard but we also play hard.”

The band is under the direction of Andre’s Pierce. This was their first competition of the year and proves one of Mr. Pierce’s favorite expressions, “Discipline is not the enemy of enthusiasm.”

Hopewell City Public School Bus Technician Places Third in National Competition

Hopewell City Public Schools’ Bus Technician, Bill Alsko, traveled to Seattle, Washington and took home a third place win at the America’s Best School Bus Technician Competition. He won the State competition in June allowing him to compete at the national level.

Alsko was humble when talking about his win. “This is my first national competition. I just figured it would be a learning experience,” he said. “I was shocked when I found out I won third place. The competition was tough. These guys are the top guys in the country.”

“I am thrilled,” said Superintendent Dr. John Fahey. “He is such a great employee who is meticulous about his work. He is truly deserving of this award.”

This is the tenth year that the National Association of Pupil Transportation has held the competition and according to Alsko this is the first time the state has placed. The first and second place winners were from Colorado and Arkansas. “Hopefully I can win again next year (to qualify for nationals),” Alsko said with a smile.

Catering II class takes baked goods to State Fair of Virginia

Mrs. Peggy Henderson has been taking her classes projects to the State Fair of Virginia since she started working at Hopewell High School in 2000. This year some of her Catering II class students have some particularly ambitious entries, including strawberry cheese cake, red velvet brownies and waffle and chicken cupcakes. She loaded up her car and took them to the fair on Friday to be judged.

PROTECT YOUR FAMILY FROM RABIES

In recognition of Rabies Awareness Week the Crater Health District is reminding residents to take precautions while dealing with wild and stray animals. The district has received five confirmed rabies cases so far this year.

According to Tim Jones Environmental Health Manager of the Crater Health District, "Rabies is a fatal disease. It can be prevented with vaccination, but once symptoms begin, it cannot be cured."

The Crater Health District stresses that any resident who may have been exposed, or has pets that may have been exposed, to any wild animals to immediately contact the local health department and/or Animal Control offices in the localities in which they reside. The Crater Health District encourages people take the following steps to prevent families and pets from being exposed to rabies:

- Vaccinate all cats, dogs and ferrets against rabies and keep them up to date!

- Avoid contact with wild animals or stray cats and dogs.
- Do not feed wild animals or stray cats and dogs.
- Report stray animals to your local animal control agency.
- Eliminate outdoor food sources around the home.
- Keep your family pets confined to your property or walk them on a leash.
- If you are bitten by an animal or exposed to rabies, wash the wound thoroughly with lots of warm water and soap and seek medical attention immediately.

State law requires all dogs and cats over the age of four months to be vaccinated against rabies. Vaccines can be given as early as three months and one product is approved for kittens at eight weeks. Dog licenses are required throughout the state and some communities require licenses for cats.

For more information on rabies, log onto the Virginia Department of Health's Web site at www.vdh.virginia.gov/Epidemiology/DEE/Rabies/, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's Web site at <http://www.cdc.gov/rabies/>, or call Crater Health District at 804-862-8942.

End of Daylight Saving Time Can Be Deadly

Early Sunday morning, November 3rd, we will turn our clocks back one hour for the end of Daylight Saving Time. Most of us think: "Fantastic! I get another hour of sleep"; and yes you will. However, there is a huge difference between the "society clock" and the "biological clock" we all work from. During such time changes there is statistically an increase in safety incidents.

With the end of daylight savings time comes an increase of darkness around the time of rush hour, when traffic is at a peak and many are making our way home from work. Drivers aren't used to the decreased visibility – nor are pedestrians, who might take chances crossing roads when they shouldn't. Pedestrians walking around at dusk are nearly three times more likely to be struck and killed by cars in the days following the end of daylight saving time than just before the time change. A study of seven years of nationwide traffic fatalities was conducted at Carnegie Mellon University, calculating the risk per mile walked for pedestrians. The study found that the per-mile risk jumps 186 percent from October to November.

The National Road Safety Foundation (NRSF) has done studies proving that auto accidents increase after the clocks fall back an hour. Besides the lack of visibility, the NRSF notes that commuting in the dark can also make drivers drowsier than usual. According to some health studies, changes in waking time coupled with the earlier onset of darkness throws off our internal clocks. This increases driving risks, primarily because in our 24/7 society, we have a fundamental problem of already being sleep deprived. The end of daylight saving time can leave many feeling fatigued, which can pose safety risks both at home and in the workplace. Some things to keep in mind when switching back to standard time are:

Fatigue -- Studies suggest that it takes people who work traditional hours several days to fully readjust their sleep schedule after the time change. While it may seem a welcome gift to get an extra hour of sleep as opposed to losing an hour in the spring, there is a physiological consequence to changing our clocks. Don't be surprised if you feel a bit sluggish during the first week or so of November.

Accidents -- Evidence suggests that time changes increase safety problems both at work and at home. Just being aware of the increased risk of accidents in the period immediately following the time change may help you stay alert. Try to avoid building up a sleep debt in the days before the change.

Safety professionals have long used the start and end of daylight saving time as reminders for performing recurring safety tasks. Use the occasion of setting your clocks back as a cue to:

- Check and replace the batteries in your smoke and carbon monoxide (CO) alarms. Ensure they are working properly and replace the batteries. As the cold sets in and many start up their gas-fired furnaces, fireplaces, portable unit heaters and the like for the first time, carbon monoxide poisoning risks increase dramatically during this time of year. Replace any smoke alarm unit that is older than 10 years. Replace any CO alarm unit that is older than 5 years.
- Prepare a winter emergency kit for your automobile. Such kits can be a lifesaver if you are stuck out in bad weather while driving. They should include items such as: warm clothes, blanket, flashlight, batteries, water, non-perishable snacks, shovel, flares, reflective hazard triangle, jumper cables, cat litter or sand for traction, ski hat and gloves.
- Check to see if your fire extinguishers need recharging. Check the small gauge at the top of the extinguisher. If the needle in that gauge is in the green, chances are, the extinguisher is okay. If it is in the red, you need to have the extinguisher recharged
